

WELCOME BACK TO DENVER ZOO! WE'VE MISSED YOU!

Your time at Denver Zoo may look and feel a little different these days. It's okay! We made these changes to help keep people and the animals safe. As always, you'll still have a great day!

HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN EXPECT ON YOUR VISIT:

FACE MASKS: Zoo employees and guests are wearing masks to help keep germs away from people and animals. You can help by wearing your mask, too!

ONE-WAY PATH: We used arrows, hay bales and fencing to create a new one-way path around the Zoo. You may have to go a different way than you're used to and wait a little longer to see your favorite animals.

TIPS:

- Follow the leader! Let your child be your guide. Have them notice the arrows and lead you in the right direction. Using the painted icons, can they guess what animal you'll see next?
- If you can't see your favorite animal first, make a goal to pick a second favorite from the animals you'll see right away.

CLOSED FOR NOW: To help keep you safe from germs, attractions and activities, like the train, carousel, and play log, may be closed today. We know—we're sad about it, too!

TIPS:

- Out of sight, out of mind! After 9:00 AM, bypass the attractions by taking the far-left exit at the black rhino roundabout for a one-hour loop of the Zoo.
- While some things are closed, we've still got plenty to see. New to the Zoo, we've lined the path with 10 new colorful murals. Make it a scavenger hunt. Can you find them all?

KEEP YOUR DISTANCE: These days, we need to stay farther away from other people. The recommendation is six feet or about the length of a llama. To stay a safe distance away from others, try to keep an imaginary llama between you and other groups.

PORTA POTTIES: Those big blue boxes on the path are bathrooms. Since you can't backtrack on the path, if you see porta potty, it might be a good time to try and go.

WASH YOUR HANDS: The best way to get rid of germs is by washing your hands—well and often! We've added many new hand wash and sanitizing stations around the Zoo. Scrub a dub dub!

TIPS:

- Washing your hands for at least 20 seconds is the best way to protect yourself. Start the clock! How many animals can you name in 20 seconds?

FOOD: Restaurants are open, but a grown-up will need to order your meal on their phone. The choices may not be the same and the container may look different but the food still tastes great! Got a picky eater in your group? Pack a lunch! Groups are welcome to picnic in the park.

NEED HELP? Look for Zoo employees in the middle of hay circles, behind plexiglass walls, and even up high in lifeguard chairs. We're here to help!
